Kilts instead of skilts for lady tram conductors, it seems, is to be the new style. It is reported from Oldham that skirts being found inconvenient and, in wet weather, a source of discomfort—especially when the car steps had to be climbed—have been discarded in the lady conductor's uniform and replaced by kilts and leggings, buttoning up the sides. If soldiers may wear kits why not tram conductors? The new fashion may for a time, cause amusement, and even ridicule, as was the case with umbrelias when first introduced, but additional comfort may overcome prejudice and lead to the innovation being adopted generally. — London Chronicle.
